Worried aides told Trump ahead of Cameron meeting...

By COLIN HURST

DONALD Trump was warned by aides not to mention allegations Lord Cameron had sex with a pig when the pair met this week.

Foreign Secretary Cameron met up with former President Trump for a courtesy call, before heading to Washington for talks.

Trump's staff were concerned he would mention allegations that the former Prime Minister inserted his penis into a dead pig's mouth as part of a secret society's initiation ceremony at Oxford University.

Suella tips Tories for a battering

THE Conservatives are heading for defeat at the general election, former home secretary Suella Braverman said, as she expressed her concerns for the fate of the party.

The Fareham MP said: "I'm very concerned, I'm very concerned about what poll after poll demonstrates, and it's my job to speak honestly, to speak the truth, even if it may be uncomfortable."

"The honest truth is that we are heading for a defeat, to put it mildly, at the election. I hope that we change course and that we improve the offer to the British people."

Ultimately, measures on tax cuts, measures on migration, measures on national security are insufficient by this Government.

"We need to go further, we need to demonstrate to the British people that we're on their side."

Woman stabbed to death at home

A MURDER probe is under way after a woman was found dead with stab wounds in her home in Westminster.

Officers were contacted on Sunday by friends of the woman who were concerned about her welfare.

Police forced entry to the property in Stanhope Place, Bayswater, on Monday and found the woman dead with a number of stab injuries.

Scotland Yard said it is working to trace and inform the woman's next of kin and a post-mortem examination will be held in due course.

FLOODY HELL!

THE River Arun burst its banks in West Sussex with local emergency services launching rescue operations in Littlehampton as new storms lashed Britain.

West Sussex Fire and Rescue Service warned people in the seaside town of severe floodwaters in the wake of Storm Kathleen.

"Our crews are supporting rescue operations where the River Arun has burst its banks, leading to severe flooding," the emergency service said on Twitter.

"Residents should remain in their properties if it is safe to do so and get as high as possible within their homes."

They said anyone requiring lifesaving intervention should dial 999.

"Please avoid the area and remain in your homes where possible to allow our crews to

...and metmen say there's more to come work safely," the emergency service said.

They were also dealing with a "severe flooding incident" at Medmerry holiday park between Bracklesham and Selsey. One person was taken to hospital.

They urged anyone in the vicinity of the holiday park to get to high ground.

South East Coast Ambulance confirmed a "number of resources" were sent to help evacuate and rescue a number of people from the site.

"We've assessed and triaged a number of people at a nearby facility. One person showing signs of hypothermia has been taken to hospital," they said on X.

The emergency update comes as heavy rain and strong winds continue to batter parts of southern England, western Wales, Northern Ireland and Scotland over the next few days, forecasters have said.

Labour will recruit more tax snoopers

VOTE Labour – get more TAXMEN!

Shadow chancellor Rachel Reeves said she could "ramp up" the number of HMRC staff "pretty quickly", as part of Labour's plans to crack down on tax avoiders.

The party has said it will invest up to £555 million a year in boosting the number of compliance officers at HMRC.

When asked how long it would take to boost staff, Ms Reeves said: "You can ramp it up pretty quickly."

"This isn't rocket science, previous governments have managed to close that tax gap, as it's called."

She added: "If you are a non-dom you can still get out of paying inheritance tax: in the first year of their policy there's a 50% discount, we don't get 50% discounts on our taxes."

"People who go out and work today don't get a 50% discount – why should some of the wealthiest people in the country get that discount? We would abolish that and put that money into frontline public services."

TRUMP IS WARNED AHEAD OF MEETING WITH CAMERON...

DON'T MENTION THE PIG!

PORKER: Cameron with a four-legged friend

DONALD Trump was warned by aides not to mention allegations Lord Cameron had sex with a pig when the pair met in Florida this week.

Foreign Secretary Lord Cameron met up with former President Trump for a courtesy call, before heading to Washington DC for talks.

Trump's staff were concerned that from-the-hip Donald would mention allegations that the former British prime minister inserted his penis into a dead pig's mouth as part of an initiation ceremony for the Piers Gaveston Society at Oxford University.

A source said: "The two men have never seen eye-to-eye and Trump is prone to lash out if he feels he's losing an argument.

"We told him, 'Sir, don't mention the pig'. Thankfully, it was all amicable."

Lord Cameron is in the US for talks with government officials about the wars in Gaza and Ukraine.

It is not unusual for foreign secretaries to meet opposition candidates during visits.

Lord Cameron has previously criticised Mr Trump, who will likely stand for the Republican Party in the US election.

During Lord Cameron's visit to the US, he is speaking to US Secretary of State Anthony Blinken about support for Ukraine and bringing stability to the Middle East.

Republican lawmakers have been blocking a proposed $47bn military aid package for Ukraine for months.

Mr Trump, and his supporters, oppose the US aid to Ukraine. Those in the House of Representatives have vowed to vote against without additional funding for US border security being agreed to first.

Stupid

Lord Cameron has been urging Republicans to approve the aid package, angering Republican congresswoman and Trump loyalist Marjorie Taylor-Greene, who told him to "kiss my ass".

In 2015, during his time as prime minister, Lord Cameron labelled Mr Trump's proposed temporary ban on Muslims entering the US "divisive, stupid and wrong".

"I think if he came to visit our country I think it'd unite us all against him," Lord Cameron said at the time, when Mr Trump was not yet elected.

Mr Trump replied by warning he may not have a "very good relationship" with Mr Cameron during his presidency. By the time Trump took office, though, Cameron had quit over Brexit.

In his memoirs published in 2019, Lord Cameron further said that he found it "depressing" that Mr Trump could win an election, and that it was due to his "protectionist, xenophobic, misogynistic interventions".

Profits jump for fag firms

CIG companies are rubbing their hands as government moves to increase the price of tobacco have boosted their profits.

Imperial Brands is set to reveal a rise in profits for the first half of the year.

The JPS maker said it is "on track" to meet half-year and full-year financial targets as a result.

It told shareholders it saw tobacco revenues grow on a constant currency basis, as well as a rise in its NGP (next generation products) business, which includes heated tobacco.

The firm's cigarette business reported declines in the UK.

However, bosses said this was broadly offset by gains in the US, Spain and Australia.

MAN HELD AFTER MUM STREET KILLING

A MAN has been arrested on suspicion of murder after a mother was stabbed in the neck as she pushed her baby in a pram in the street.

West Yorkshire Police said a 25-year-old man was arrested over the death of Kulsuma Akter, 27, who was killed in the Westgate area of Bradford city centre on Saturday afternoon.

Officers said the man, from Oldham, was arrested in the early hours of Tuesday in Aylesbury, Buckinghamshire.

Ms Akter was taken to hospital after being stabbed several times on Saturday. She later died from her injuries.

The baby is safe and was not harmed in the incident.

West Yorks Police referred itself to the Independent Office of Police Conduct because officers had contact with Ms Akter before her death, a force spokesperson confirmed.

A 23-year-old man arrested in Cheshire on suspicion of assisting an offender remains in police custody.

Members of the public and the media are being thanked for sharing appeals for information in relation to Ms Akter's death.

Detective Chief Inspector Stacey Atkinson, of West Yorkshire Police, said: "This is a tragic incident in which a mother has lost her life in the most horrific of circumstances."

"We understand that this has caused a considerable amount of concern in the local community. Local neighbourhood policing teams are patrolling the area conducting reassurance to the community."

MASSIVE EARNINGS:
Brit could rake it in

'porn' site

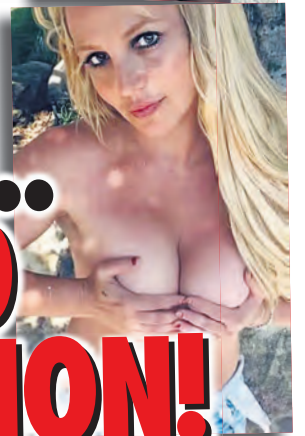

CHART-topping star Britney Spears could rake in a whopping $100 million (£80m) per year if she joins OnlyFans – an expert in the online grot site reckons.

The 42-year-old Toxic singer told fans in January she'll "never" make another album, prompting pundits to ponder a potential pivot for the pop icon.

Brit often shares racy selfies and videos on her Instagram account, sparking speculation she could soon become a full-time content creator as a means to generate a massive income.

While insiders say she has "no interest" in joining OnlyFans – due to its association with porn stars – she might reconsider when she hears how much money she could make.

"According to all the statistics I've examined, my prediction for her earnings would be that the first month of the launch will bring a massive influx of people – making her earnings range anywhere from $13-18million," Celeste Franklyn, an OnlyFans manager, said.

"In the following months, her income will most likely level out to about $6-9million a month, due to the decline of engagement that was caused by the initial curiosity," she added, saying the yearly income would likely top an eye-watering NINE figures.

However, Franklyn added that Brit would need to think carefully about what content to post on OnlyFans, in order to maximise her earning potential.

TASTY Taylor Swift has joined the most exclusive club in the world – by becoming a BILLIONAIRE!

The business magazine Forbes has produced a list of the world's billionaires with the American pop star entering with a fortune of $1.1bn (£877m).

Taylor's rise to billionaire status is due to a mix of recent successes – including re-recording her 1989 album, the Eras tour and the concert film being a box office hit.

Travelling

It's been a huge year for the doe-eyed chart poppet, who stole the show at this year's Grammy Awards, becoming the first performer to win the prize for album of the year for a record fourth time.

Her album Midnights was also the top streamed album in the UK last year.

The American superstar is currently travelling the world on her Eras tour and will be performing in Edinburgh, Cardiff, Liverpool and London later this year.

Her album 1989 (Taylor's Version) was also the best-selling vinyl LP of last year.

Her attendance at American football games to watch her boyfriend Travis Kelce has been credited with raising the sport's viewing figures.

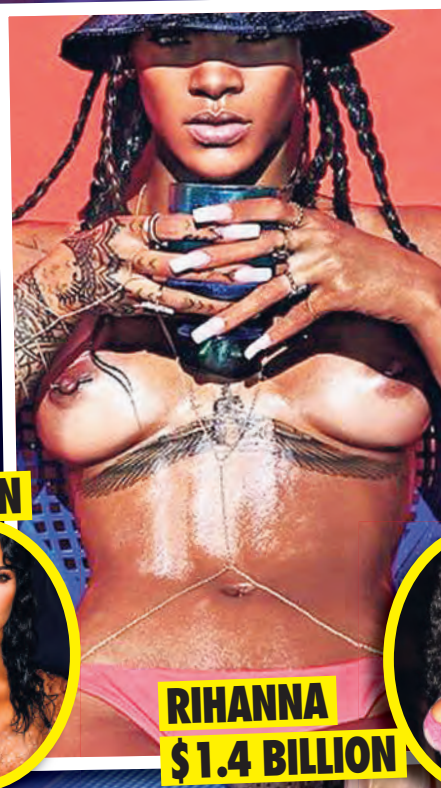

But Taylor is not the only billionaire whose back you'd scrub in the bath.

Kim Kardashian and Rihanna are also billionaires – and unlike Taylor, they've shown off their billionaire busters.

Big-boobed Billie makes 'eco album'

WOKE Billie Eilish has announced an 'eco-friendly' album.

The star says her third record, Hit Me Hard And Soft, will be released on May 17, with no singles in advance so fans can hear it "all at once".

She also published a bizarre "sustainability plan" for the album, with the aim of minimising her environmental impact.

Vinyl copies will be pressed onto eco-vinyl, with all the packaging from recycled material.

Eilish will also use raw, plant-based ink and water-based varnish. Instead of shrink-wrap, the album sleeves will be 100% recycled and re-usable.

The move comes amid a boom in vinyl sales, with 5.9 million units sold in the UK alone last year.

But vinyl is made from plastic, which has a major environmental impact which Eilish wants to avoid.

Spain to stop selling £429k golden visas

SPAIN plans to end its 'golden visa' scheme which provides residency to property buyers from abroad.

In a blow to British expats eyeing Spanish shores, prime minister Pedro Sanchez said the move aims to prioritise affordable housing for Spaniards instead.

Currently, the programme permits non-EU citizens who invest £429,000 in Spanish property to live and work in the country.

Mr Sanchez said: "Today, 94 out of every 100 such visas are linked to investment... in major cities like Barcelona, Madrid, Malaga, Alicante, Valencia or Palma de Mallorca that are facing a highly stressed market and where it's impossible to find decent housing for those who live, work and pay their taxes there."

AXE KILLER PLAYED FOOTBALL WITH HIS DAD'S HEAD!

AN axeman decapitated his father before kicking the severed head along the main road – then throwing it at a passer-by.

The crazed 46-year-old is said to have kicked the victim's head around as if it was a football on a main road running through his home town of Soto de Ribera near the city of Oviedo in Spain.

Police believe he beheaded his father, aged 71, with an axe before using the same weapon to attack the vehicles of shocked motorists.

One of the drivers who witnessed the macabre scene said on social media: "A madman on the roundabout in Soto de Ribera has just killed someone."

"There's an old man's head on the tarmac and a younger guy without his top on covered in blood who's just thrown himself at my car."

"Police arrived and manhandled him to the ground. Incredible."

Another passing motorist witness, named as Arancha Lombas, told a local paper: "He threw the head at me after getting in front of me."

"He had the head in his hand and he was laughing. As I went by him, I turned round and saw him playing with the head as if it were a football. He must have thrown it at others."

A resident told how he had been drinking cider in a bar when a man came in and asked the bar owner: "Let me wash my hands because I'm covered in blood, someone's killed another person and he's semi-naked on the roundabout kicking cars."

"I helped police bring him under control so they could arrest him but he threw the head at me."

Rampage

The detainee, who was topless and covered in blood when he was held, was taken to a police station before being transferred to a hospital psychiatric unit.

He has only been identified so far by his initials – P.M.

The dead man had two other children. It is not yet known why his son, said to have lived with his alleged victim at a house near the roundabout where the horror scene unfolded, allegedly went on the rampage.

The alarm was raised at around 10pm as the chaos unfolded.

A police spokesman confirmed: "We have arrested a man on suspicion of killing his father.

By ANNE COATES

"He was taken to a police station but given the condition he was in he was then transferred to a hospital in Oviedo and admitted to a psychiatric unit."

"Initial reports referenced the fact motorists had been attacked by the man held but that information is incorrect and there are no other casualties."

A police source added: "Several cars were left covered in blood where the suspect allegedly threw his father's severed head against passing vehicles on a roundabout on the road running through Soto de Ribera."

Another source close to the inquiry said: "The investigation is still ongoing but the best information officers have at the moment is that the arrested man had no previous criminal record."

"Why he went berserk in the way he did is something we are still trying to clarify."

Turks get teeth into most sex partners

TURKEY is the randiest nation on the planet, according to new data on the world's sexual habits.

World Population Review said that the average Turk has slept with more than 14 people, putting the nation well above the United States.

"The average number of sexual partners can vary significantly from country to country, as cultural norms can have a significant impact on the number of people someone has sex with," the website said, adding that the figures were comprised after compiling datasets from multiple third party sources.

Turkey's top spot may surprise some, given that more than 99% of residents are Muslim and the country is widely conceived to have traditional views when it comes sex and relationships.

Countries thought to have more liberal views on sex, such as Brazil and France, were surprisingly low down on the list – the average Brazilian has bedded nine people, putting it in 25th place.

And France was less frisky, clocking in 29th position, as its citizens have slept with an average of eight people.

Australia took second place on the list, with the average Aussie having sex with more than 13 people over the course of their lifetime.

Brits came in with an average of just under 10, putting us in 20th place.

Eclipse sees 300 couples tie the knot

MORE than 300 couples tied the knot during a mass wedding ceremony in Russellville, Arkansas, during this week's Yank solar eclipse.

The couples said "I do" in a field at a free Elope at the Eclipse event just moments before the moon blotted out the sun on Monday afternoon.

"It just seems like the coolest wedding that you could ever have," one bride, Carlotta Cox, said ahead of her nuptials.

While some opted for traditional wedding gowns and suits for the unusual weddings, others were spotted wearing medieval attire as they exchanged rings and vows.

A huge cheer erupted in the field as the mass celebrant declared them all legally wed.

Arkansas locals expressed shock at the mass wedding, as many of the marrying couples were not even related to each other.

Russellville, which was ranked by NASA as one of the best places in the US to watch the eclipse, was expected to be in the eclipse's path of totality for roughly four minutes.

'CLIMATE CHANGE CAUSES QUAKES'

WHAT A TWIT: Khalil (above) and her Twitter post

Christina Amira Khalil @Christina4NJ Follow

I experienced my first earthquake in NJ. We never get earthquakes. The climate crisis is real.

The weirdest experience ever.

A HALFWIT Green Party loon blamed last week's New York earthquake on CLIMATE CHANGE.

Christina Amira Khalil, who is standing for election to the US Senate, tweeted just minutes after the quake, which was the strongest tremor to strike near the Big Apple in 140 years.

"I experienced my first earthquake in NJ. We never get them. The climate crisis is real. The weirdest experience ever," Khalil wrote on Twitter.

The post was only up for a few hours before the congressional hopeful then deleted it – but not before it was viewed millions of times on social media.

Dozens of other high-profile politicians and commentators shared Khalil's tweet, mocking the politician for linking movement in the Earth's crust to climate change in the atmosphere.

"Holy crap I was just joking about people blaming climate change and then this genius pops up. A Senate candidate no less!" Republican Rep. Dan Crenshaw of Texas

By COLIN HURST
news@sundaysport.co.uk

wrote in response to the since-deleted tweet. "Senate candidate Christina Amira Khalil just said that 'climate crisis' caused today's earthquake in New Jersey. Climate doesn't cause earthquakes – they're caused by tectonic plates shifting. This woman is a moron," Conservative commentator Paul Szypula said.

Khalil, who is running to take over embattled Democratic Sen. Robert Menendez's New Jersey seat in the US Senate, has since replaced her controversial tweet with one simply detailing her shock at experiencing the rare earthquake in New Jersey.

According to NASA, there is no link between climate change and earthquakes, which ARE caused by tectonic plates colliding into one another below the Earth's surface.

"We know that most earthquakes occur far beneath the Earth's surface – well beyond the influence of surface temperatures and conditions," Alan Buis of NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, said back in 2019.

Drea puts son 'in his place' over OnlyFans

UPFRONT Sopranos star Drea de Matteo laid it out when her son whined about her being on OnlyFans.

Drea (above) joked that she had to put her 12-year-old son, Waylon, "in his place" when he expressed dismay over her new grumble career.

On an episode of The Sage Steele Show she recalled asking him: "Do you like that jacket you just asked me to buy you?"

"You like all the things that you want that make you happy? You like that new PC that you begged for for Christmas? Because you wouldn't have that shit if Mommy didn't show her ass!" she laughed.

When Steele asked how Waylon responded to that, Drea added: "That shuts him up because he's a greedy little bastard."

The actress, 52, joined OnlyFans in August last year after her refusal to get the COVID-19 vaccine left her jobless and with just £10 to her name.

She recently claimed that she paid off her mortgage debt in "five minutes" after posting content on the subscriber platform which hosts mainly "porn".

Women come top in orgasm gap scrutiny

MEN are shit in bed – and that's OFFICIAL!

A new study conducted by psychologists at Rutgers University found that women with female sexual partners are more likely to have consistent orgasms than women with male lovers.

Previous research has consistently shown that men are more likely to achieve orgasm during sexual activity compared to women.

Now the new data, published in Social Psychological and Personality Science, suggests the "orgasm gap" between men and women may also be affected by the gender of their sexual partner.

During the study, researchers analysed how a partner's gender shapes a woman's expectation of orgasm during sex, and ultimately their pursuit of an orgasm.

It determined that women are more likely to expect clitoral stimulation, which leads to female orgasm, when having sex with a woman than with a man.

Study co-author Grace Wetzel said: "This sheds light on why the orgasm gap exists."

Licence suspended over abuse claims

VET 'HAD SEX WITH HORSE'

By KIT JACKSON

news@sundaysport.co.uk

A VET charged with domestic violence and having sex with a horse has had his licence suspended.

Phillip Dilts, of Fredericktown, Ohio, is charged with two counts of domestic violence and one of sexual conduct with an animal.

Dr Dilts, 66, was arrested and pleaded not guilty to all charges.

Knox County Sheriff deputies went to Dilts's home after a report about a domestic dispute.

They were told Dilts was caught by his wife having sex with a horse.

Court records state that when his wife caught him behind the horse, he threatened to shoot himself.

Vodka

Dilts then tried to enter the cellar at the property where his guns were kept, but his wife blocked him, records state.

Dilts then pushed his wife out of the way twice, and when his daughter intervened to try and separate them, he pushed her to the ground.

Cops said that Dilts, who had been drinking vodka that night, told them he did not have sex with the horse but that he was about to do so.

Rob Broeren, Mount Vernon law director, said there is enough evidence to pursue charges.

"A prosecutor can only bring charges and sustain them if they feel they can prove them beyond a reasonable doubt," he said, noting that sheriff's deputies wearing body cameras recorded Dilts's statements.

Dilts said he and his estranged wife are in the process of a divorce and that the bestiality accusation is retaliatory.

"We had a sick horse, and I was waiting for it to eat its oats," he said. "I was standing behind it, and I took it by the tail and was turning it when my wife looked through an opening in the barn."

The Ohio Veterinary Medical Licensing Board voted unanimously to suspend Dilts's licence with immediate effect.

Tourists welcome to enjoy goat takeaway

THE mayor of an island overrun with goats is begging tourists to come and take them away.

Just 100 people live on Alicudi, off the coast of Sicily, but it is also home to more than 600 goats.

Since local authorities have been unable to manage the growing goat population, local mayor Riccardo Gullo has come up with an "adopt-a-goat" scheme, which will allow people who make an official request to take up to 50 goats with them.

All you need is a boat to take them away.

The animals were first introduced to the island 20 years ago by a farmer who set them free.

The giveaway will run until the herd is reduced to a manageable size.

'BIKE GANG' COP HAD STOLEN GUN

A COP is accused of living a double life as a member of an outlaw biker gang after police found an arsenal of firearms at his home – including a stolen shotgun from his department.

Deputy Christopher Bingham, 45 (below), was arrested after he was caught riding with two members of "a local outlaw motorcycle gang", according to the sheriff's department in San Bernardino, California.

Bingham, an 18-year sheriff's department vet, allegedly had an unloaded, unregistered firearm and was booked at the Smith Correctional Facility but was later released.

He faces several charges including possession of a machine gun, theft of a firearm, and participation in a criminal street gang.

Investigators from the Gangs/Narcotics Division executed a search warrant at his home following his arrest and found a "treasure trove of 160 firearms".

Leader slams bone-smoke junkie craze

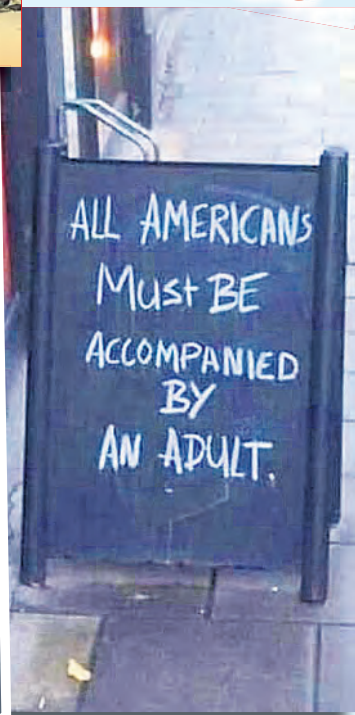

JUNKIES smoking human bones to get high has been declared a national emergency.

Julius Maada Bio (above), president of the African shithole of Sierra Leone, took to the airwaves for a nationwide address about the drug scourge which has forced police officers to keep watch over cemeteries in the capital of Freetown to prevent young men digging up skeletons.

"Our country is faced with an existential threat due to the ravaging impact of drugs and substance abuse, particularly the synthetic drug kush," Bio said.

One of the main ingredients in zombie drug kush is ground-up human bone which, when added to other harmful chemicals and cannabis enhances the drug's "high".

Hundreds of young men have recently died of organ failure linked to the dangerous narcotic.

HAPPY Siblings Day!

We've got Mother's Day and Father's Day – well today is when we salute our brothers and sisters.

The day was conceived by Claudia Ewart in 1995 to honour the memory of her brother and sister, who died at early ages.

Claudia Ewart, a native New Yorker and resident of New York City, founded the Siblings Day Foundation (SDF) as a tax-exempt organisation.

Celebrated

Inspired by the loss of her siblings Alan (age 36) and Lisette (age 19) at a young age,

Ewart created the SDF with the aim of establishing a National Siblings Day to be celebrated annually on April 10, Lisette's birthday.

Here at Midweek Sport we like to especially celebrate sisters so here's five pages of famous sisters – with their boobs out!

MY ultimate sex fantasy has to be to get it on with a sexy girl while my fella watches.

I have never had a threesome, but it's definitely something I'm up for trying. I'm straight, but I can't deny that other women are incredibly sexy. There's something so hot about a woman with curves in all the right places – I love an hourglass figure with nice boobs and a peachy bum. I also have a thing for girls with tattoos and a bit of sass. I find confident girls really hot!

I imagine arranging a threesome and my fella sitting in the corner while me and the girl kiss and slowly undress each other on the bed. After lots of foreplay and lots of licking, getting each other worked up, I'd invite my boyfriend to join in, and give us both a good seeing-to!

I'm just waiting for the right offer to come along...

Harry & Meg neighbours in blockade row

SNOOTY millionaires living in Harry and Meg's posh California neighbourhood are facing fines for trying to keep the "common" people out of their swanky postcode.

Toffs in the celebrity enclave of Montecito placed boulders to try and stop ordinary folk getting to the beauty spot of Montecito Hot Springs.

Now at least six different homeowners have received letters from Santa Barbara County's Public Works office demanding they remove the blockades from the public right-of-way near the trailhead, or face daily fines up to £670 and possible prosecution.

It's not thought that Meg and Harry (above) are involved in the blockade.

The car park at the head of the trail to the Springs has about eight parking spots for vehicles, but after those fill up, hikers park along the road by the millionaires' homes.

The beautiful hot springs is a 1.3 mile hike from the trailhead located on East Mountain Drive in the San Padres Forest.

It has six pools that run down the canyon and each one can fit up to 10 people.

Man nicked for Easter bible-bash

A MAN was arrested after he allegedly assaulted a pharmacy manager with a bible on Easter Sunday.

Peter Owens, 35, was arrested and charged with battery after the incident at a Walgreens store in Clearwater Beach, Florida.

Owens entered the Walgreens pharmacy to purchase a pair of headphones when he then got into a verbal altercation with a store employee over the merchandise.

The argument quickly escalated after the employee got the store manager involved.

Owens then allegedly smacked her in the face with a bible after she asked him to leave the store.

Police were able to locate Owens shortly afterwards, and take him into custody.

He told police that he hit the store manager with his copy of the bible because "she was being rude to him," the affidavit said, adding that "he did not mean to hit her".

Owens was released from the Pinellas County Jail the next day after posting bail.

STEAMY ROMP: Kim and Dom in Horror Story

I LOVED SEX WITH KIM K

(...bet you did, mate!)

CO-STAR: Dominic

By JO TAYLOR news@sundaysport.co.uk

NOT a surprise, really...

Actor Dominic Burgess has revealed that filming sex scenes with busty reality babe Kim Kardashian was "really pleasant".

Dominic co-stars with Kim in American Horror Story: Delicate and he's opened up to Variety about what it was like filming a sex scene with the siren.

The 41-year-old actor plays a director called Hamish Moss in Ryan Murphy's long-running anthology.

In the latest instalment of the series, Moss hires Siobhan Corbyn (played by Kim, 43), enlisting her diabolic powers to move his career on.

For their steamy romp, the two stars used an intimacy coordinator and Burgess described creating the racy scene as "a really pleasant experience".

Intimacy

He added: "There was an intimacy coordinator who asked what we felt comfortable with, and the director was John J. Gray, who I worked with on Feud, and Kim was wonderful. It ended up being a really pleasant experience.

"I was nervous and body-conscious, and to find out my first sex scene is going to be with an icon known for their beauty was a lot!"

And speaking about Kim's work ethic, he added: "She worked so hard. Someone in her position could just go to their trailer and just come out when needed, but she was so present. "She was asking questions, sharing ideas and being really open and engaging."

KILLER CURVES: Kim loves to flash the flesh

Dominic also gushed that the reality TV superstar was "really friendly".

However, he did not reveal whether he got to see Kim's famous minge close-up.

Pop nonce's victims want police record unsealed...

COURT BATTLE OVER JACKO'S DICK PICS

CLAIMS:
James
Safechuck
(top) and
Wade
Robson

By KIT JACKSON

news@sundaysport.co.uk

PHOTOS of Michael Jackson's DICK could be shared with the world after two men abused by the pop nonce as children seek to unseal court records.

Wade Robson, 41, and James Safechuck, 46, claim that Jackson repeatedly abused them as young children in the 1980s and Nineties at his famous Neverland ranch home and elsewhere.

The pair failed in lawsuits against the singer's production companies, which since his 2009 death are owned by his estate, but the suits were revived last year.

As part of the case, which could go to trial as early as next year, they are seeking access to sealed police records from Jackson's 2005 noncerty charges.

Lawyers for MJJ Productions and MJJ Ventures believe the real target is "photographs of Michael Jackson's genitalia and naked body taken by police".

Further details of what the pics show and when or why they were taken are not known.

Police investigating allegations of sexual assault will sometimes ask accusers for detailed descriptions of their alleged attacker's private parts and bodies.

Officers do so in a bid to uncover any unique physical features which may corroborate their claims.

It is also unclear why Jacko's estate believes Robinson and Safechuck are seeking to have the nude photos shared with the world.

OVERDOSE:
Jackson

The motion to quash the four subpoenas, which was filed in the Los Angeles Superior Court, noted the images were sealed by a court-ordered protective order.

"Beyond the invasion of privacy issues, the available records indicate the photographs the plaintiffs now seek are also subject to a strict protective order agreed to by Michael Jackson and Santa Barbara law enforcement and entered by the Santa Barbara Superior Court," the motion read.

Safechuck claims he was abused from 1988 to 1992, starting when he was 11, and Robson from 1990-96, starting when he was eight.

The duo want to go to trial before the Michael Jackson biopic, which is expected to be largely flattering, is released sometime next year.

Thriller star Jackson died in 2009 after a drug overdose.

Eclipse sparked motorway shootings

A CRAZED Yank woman opened fire on a motorway – shooting two drivers – because "God" told her to during Monday's solar eclipse.

Taylon Michelle Celestine (right), 22, left her motel in Holmes County, Florida, telling staff there she was directed by "God" to go on a shooting spree in relation to the total solar eclipse. She allegedly shot at a passing car several times. The driver of the vehicle was grazed by a bullet on the arm and was struck with glass when a bullet hit his window.

A second driver was shot in the neck and was rushed to hospital. Cops caught up with her and recovered an AR-15 and a 9mm handgun.

Dad fakes death to avoid £100k child support

A DEADBEAT dad admitted to faking his death, to avoid paying his ex-wife £100,000 in outstanding child support, and is facing serious jail time for the elaborate ruse.

Jesse Kipf, 38 (above), pleaded guilty to aggravated identity theft and computer fraud.

He was nicked after investigators from the FBI in Louisville, Kentucky, staff from the Department of the Attorney General for Hawaii, and members of the Pulaski County Sheriff's Office caught wind of his cyber crimes.

Kipf admitted to completing a fake Hawaii Death Certificate in January 2023, where he also "assigned himself as the medical certifier for the case and certified that case".

Prosecutors argued that his motivation to commit the cyber crimes was fuelled by his desire to avoid paying outstanding child support to his ex.

The very-much-alive father then "infiltrated other states' death registry systems" using stolen credentials in order to be registered as deceased in "many government databases".

Kipf now faces a maximum of five years in prison.

Drunk beaten for mocking girl at Disney

A DRUNK who made fun of a disabled girl at a Disney World restaurant was arrested, after he'd got a twatting from the girl's family.

Brent George, 61, is said to have approached a table of four at Belle Vue Lounge inside Disney's Boardwalk Inn at the Florida resort, where he then taunted a girl with Down syndrome.

Candance Boyette Goldberg, the girl's mother, then confronted George and demanded to know if he was making fun of her daughter, who has not been identified.

George allegedly then shoved the woman twice and punched another family member, who responded by decking George.

A bystander intervened, managed to get George in a bear hug, and flung him out of the boozery.

George was later arrested and charged with four counts of battery.

He was carted off to the Orange County Jail, where he spent the night locked up.

George has since pleaded not guilty.

Bizarre scenes as loon appears naked in court

I'M LOST WITHOUT MY LITTLE PUSSY

CAT pic posed by model

Heather still stuns at fifty-phwoar!

ACTRESS Heather Graham showed off her bikini body while she soaked up the sun in Mexico.

The 54-year-old Boogie Nights beauty was all smiles as she posed in three swimming cossies by the water and enjoyed some time off.

One fan said: "My wife is 54 and she doesn't look like this. In fact, my wife in a bikini would scare the cat!"

A MAN appeared in court completely nude and refused to wear any clothing after his "emotional support" cat went missing during a traffic stop arrest.

Joseph Davis, 51, appeared before Judge Marie Quirke at a sitting of Dublin District Court.

Mr Davis, of Dublin, was charged with Road Traffic Act offences of failing to give police his details and not keeping the car stationary during an alleged incident.

Judge Quirke heard the motorist refused to wear his clothes when he was brought to the courthouse.

She remanded him in custody with consent to bail, directed medical attention and asked police to find out what happened to his pet cat, Oliver.

Mr Davis entered the stunned courtroom naked with his hands over his private parts, but within seconds he then stood with arms outstretched to argue his case after rejecting the services of a lawyer, telling him to: "Fk off."

Stripped

Judge Quirke told Davis to sit down, but he stood and claimed he had been stripped and humiliated as he then demanded an opportunity to speak.

Davis told the court: "Let me tell you my story. This is relevant... this is my story. What happened yesterday, I was travelling with my companion pet Oliver, he normally comes into this court. I was dropping off legal documents pertaining to a legal case in the High Court."

Davis called police "scum", maintaining he tried to show them the documents and that he had also been "bashed".

He said he'd been lent the car involved in the alleged offence and demanded: "Now, where is my emotional support animal?"

The court heard a doctor attended him in the police station and gave him advice, but the accused claimed he was seen by someone who did not speak "fking English".

Davis said that he was stressed because his emotional support animal was missing.

Unemployed Davis banged on the glass barrier in front of the dock and again said: "Where's my emotional support animal?!"

The judge was told that Davis had been previously allowed to bring the cat to court with him, provided he kept it on a leash.

Judge Quirke then described it as "an impossible situation" and Davis agreed, before adding: "Please, I need to find my animal. I'm lost without him, and he is lost without me."

Judge Quirke set his bail and directed immediate medical attention while Davis remained in custody.

While escorted from the courtroom, Davis replied that he did not need a doctor, just his pet, as the judge assured him, saying: "All that will be looked into."

Davis has yet to plead to the charges and will appear at Cloverhill District Court later this week.

Dear Lexi,

MY wife's best mate got divorced last year and until recently she hadn't had sex for six months.

Back in February she came round for a meal and after a few glasses we started talking about sex.

It was then she told me how horny she felt before asking my missus if she could "borrow" me once a week.

My wife said it was up to me, so I agreed – and to celebrate our deal we had a threesome.

They sucked my knob before I shagged both of them.

For a few weeks I was screwing my wife's mate on a Wednesday – and she was up for pretty much anything.

But then the missus told me that she fancies a bloke at work and wants to have it off with him when things get back to normal.

I don't want her to, but she says if I don't agree then I can't ever shag her pal again. What do you say?

DP, Hants

Lexi says...SURELY that's only fair.Dear Lexi,

RECENTLY at work there was a promotion up for grabs.

I'm a 23-year-old woman with ambition, long blonde hair, long legs and 36D breasts.

The job on offer was as PA to the manager.

I dressed up for the interview in a black thong, micro-mini and knee-high black leather boots.

The manager, who is 62 and has a sexy bald head, couldn't take his eyes off my legs.

He said I'd have to work overtime and go away on trips with him.

I said: "Certainly, sir, you're the boss," as I pouted and winked at him suggestively.

He asked me to bend over and touch my toes and when I did he told me the job was mine.

To celebrate, he took me out to dinner on the back of his motorbike and the ride made me so randy I suggested we stop off at a hotel.

He was as turned-on as I was, and we did it five times that night.

But I'd prefer to be his lover than his PA. What do you think?

AN, South Yorks

Lexi says...JUST think of it as perks of the job.

Daughter's horny pals reckon I'm a superstud!

Dear Lexi,

FOR some reason two of my daughter's friends think I'm some sort of superstud!

They're 20 and I'm 44, but they are always sidling up to me and offering sex when my daughter isn't looking.

One Saturday night, I gave my daughter and her mates a lift home after they'd been out to a club in town.

I dropped my daughter off first before taking her mates back to their place a few miles away.

I could hear them giggling in the back seat and just thought they were having a bit of fun.

Then one of them said that I didn't have to take them straight home if I wanted to be surprised.

I glanced in the rear-view mirror and got the shock of my life. They were both naked!

I don't know what came over me but I drove as quick as I could to a country lane and got in the back seat with them.

I ended up shagging one while the other sat on my face and then doing the same again the other way around.

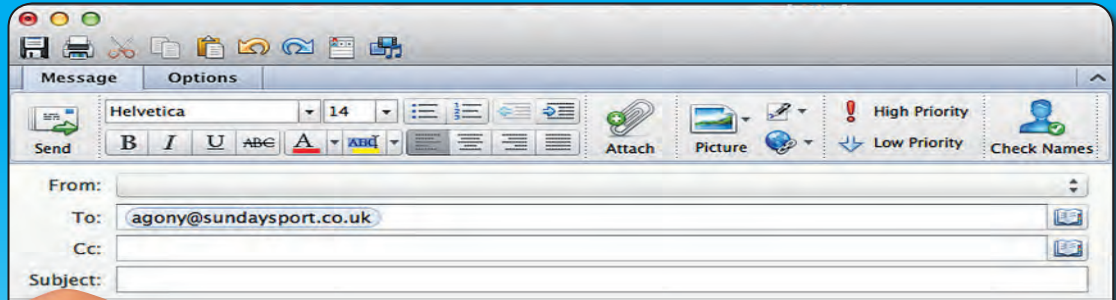

I've been shagging both for a while and I'm loving being the centre of attention.

But I fear my daughter knows. What should I do?

RD, Tyneside

Lexi says...YOU know what to do – stop NOW!AGONY IS BROUGHT TO YOU IN ASSOCIATION

WELCOME to the World famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's agony aunts can offer the level of advice – or experience – than our own Agony Angels! This week LEXI LOWE has been reading through your letters. And here's her advice for you...

I'm caught in a sex trap between two hot sisters

Dear Lexi,

I'VE had a bit of a problem since I moved to a new village six months ago.

I work in the only pub and fell for one of the locals. She's 29 and has a cracking figure.

We have a laugh and a joke every time she comes in and we fondle each other without the pub regulars knowing.

Ripped

I'd really like a relationship with her, but the problem is that I'm sleeping with her sister!

I met her soon after I settled in my little cottage and we've been an item since.

She's a great girl in her mid-30s and we have a great deal in common and a lively sex life.

Recently we had a lock-in at the pub and both sisters were there with me.

When I went to the toilet, the younger sister followed me.

She got my manhood out, ripped my jeans down and hitched up her skirt. Then she pushed me against the wash basin and ordered me to fk her hard.

After 10 minutes we were still going for it when my bird came in.

She pushed her sister to one side, took her top off and started sucking me off until I came all over her massive tits.

I ended up shafting both of them – twice!

But the next morning, when we'd all sobered up, things were a little different and now they are asking me to choose between them.

I don't want to ditch either. What should I do?

JL, Gloucestershire

Lexi says...

IT seems like you are more keen on the younger sister, so I think your choice is an easy one.

Dear Lexi,

I USED to take my son to work and drop him off at the bus station.

One day, a young woman waved me down and asked if I was looking for business, but I told her: "No thanks."

But after a week of sexual frustration at home I decided to go back to the same spot and pick her up.

We drove to a quiet lane and she expertly sucked my cock while I played with her boobs before pulling up her skirt and riding her until I exploded.

I was soon seeing her four times a week and the sex was mind-blowing.

Is this OK?

ST, Yorks

Lexi says...

AS long as you have the dosh, yes.

Dear Lexi,

SINCE my wife had our first baby we've hardly had sex.

I've tried to remain faithful to her but last month her best mate paid us a visit.

We were alone as the missus had gone to stay with her mum for a few days – a fact I'm sure her mate was fully aware of – so I thought I'd try it on.

She was well up for it and soon we were in bed.

She's got a great body and massive tits and I probed her stiff nipples with my tongue until she begged me to fk her.

It was a real turn-on seeing my cock slide in and out of her wet pussy as I took her from behind.

She then asked me to do her up the bum – and I couldn't believe my luck, as my wife has never let me do this with her.

I was in heaven as I felt her sphincter relax and I pushed slowly in and out.

Later, she gave me a blowjob and let me shoot my sticky wad all over her tits.

I try to see her as often as I can and the sex gets better every time.

Life with my wife is so boring that I'm considering leaving her.

Her mate said she'll finish with her boyfriend and I can move in with her.

What do you think?

PT, Somerset

Lexi says...

LUCKY old you!

Stripper bonked me to keep her secret

Dear Lexi,

MY work colleague's wife works as a stripper in a club near my office in the centre of the city.

She's a busty blonde in her mid-30s and I happen to know she has shagged loads of the regulars in there – because I go there now and again myself.

A couple of months ago I watched as she did her super sexy show and then she offered blowjobs for a tenner-a-time.

Not surprisingly, there were lots of takers and she sucked off about twenty blokes.

She didn't notice me until she was going home and went white in the face when she did.

She explained that her husband knows nothing about her stripping and that she did it to earn extra money and because she was bored with her sex life.

Licked

She then said that I could shag her every Wednesday night if I kept my mouth shut.

To my shame, I agreed. The first time we did it was in my car. We got on the back seat and I licked her out before boning her from behind.

I've since fked her in every hole and despite feeling guilty I was enjoying it.

That was until she told she now wants to leave her husband and move in with me.

It's the last thing I want when I've got to work alongside her husband. What should I do?

GF, east London

Lexi says...

STOP the sex and tell her you'll be happy just to watch her strip in the club in future.

Chase ace Hewick in switch to hurdles

KING George hero Hewick has emerged as a surprise contender for the JRL Group Liverpool Hurdle, with trainer John 'Shark' Hanlon (above) keen to keep options open with conditions at Aintree currently testing ahead of the three-day Grand National meeting.

Famously acquired for just €850, the nine-year-old's rags-to-riches tale as seen him become one of the most popular horses in training and he has picked up prizes such as the Galway Plate and American Grand National en route to becoming a bona fide Grade One operator.

After striking at Kempton on Boxing Day, the wet weather has already scuppered Hanlon's plans to run Hewick in both the Cheltenham Gold Cup and Randox Grand National itself this spring and the continued rainfall has seen him searching for a Merseyside alternative to running in Thursday's Aintree Bowl.

However, the County Carlow handler has no concerns about switching to the smaller obstacles, unwilling to expose his stable star to what could be the worst of conditions on Thursday.

"We know he is as good a hurdler as he is a chaser and I'm not worried about running him over hurdles," said Hanlon.

"We ran him in the French Champion Hurdle and he ran a cracker, the ground was just too soft and if the ground was too soft there at Aintree on Thursday and we didn't run him, it gives us the option to run him there on Saturday.

"They are giving the weather to dry up from Tuesday on and the ground could be good again on Saturday, so if the ground was OK we would run him.

"I've had it in my mind for the last fortnight and he wouldn't mind a bit of cut in the ground over hurdles, it's just that he's not over big himself and over fences I would be afraid he would burst his heart trying to jump out of heavy ground, which over a hurdle he won't. It's not that he has to have good ground, it is just that a fence looks very big to him on soft ground.

"He's in great form and he's worked nice. We're just going to wait now and see and it might be that (hurdles) division this year might not be overly the best. I just have to keep all my options open."

COUNTDOWN TO THE GRAND NATIONAL

NATIONAL CON JOB IN DOUBT

Aintree top weight may be pulled out as the rain keeps falling on Merseyside

GROUND conditions will be the deciding factor in whether top-weight Conflated will line up in the Grand National at Aintree on Saturday – with the weather pointing towards Delta Work as the number one for Gordon Elliott and Gigginstown House.

The 10-year-old Conflated, who holds entries in the Aintree Bowl on Thursday and Friday's Melling Chase, is one of 13 contenders for Gordon Elliott, with Coko Beach, Delta Work and Galvin also part of the three-time Grand National-winning trainer's squad.

Conflated, Coko Beach and Delta Work all carry the colours of Michael O'Leary's Gigginstown House Stud, who are also responsible for Farouk D'Alene, Run Wild Fred and Frontal

By MIKE FRANCIS

Assault, although the latter is almost certain to miss the cut.

When asked whether the first five were intended runners Gigginstown's racing manager Eddie O'Leary said: "I would think at the moment yes, maybe Conflated might not, we'll see how heavy the ground is going to be. If it's very heavy he might come out to go in the Bowl or even the Melling.

"Would we chance him in the National over that trip on good ground yes, would we chance him over that trip on heavy, probably no. We'll see what Gordon thinks.

"Coko Beach likes soft, but he mightn't like what the handicapper's done to him. He's a lovely old horse, but he's run it he race twice and failed to get home twice.

"We'll obviously give him a bit more of a chance this year, rather than trying to make the running with him, but he got a big hike for winning the Troytown and off that weight (11st 7lb) it's hard to fancy him. Conflated has to give him 5lb and Conflated would carry him."

The Gigginstown colours have been carried to Aintree glory three times – twice by Tiger Roll and once by Rule The World.

Forward

Like Tiger Roll, Delta Work is a winner of the cross-country chase at Cheltenham, although that race was called off this year, meaning a slightly less smooth preparation.

O'Leary is still hopeful. He said: "Delta Work would be the one. He's a good horse and he'll love the ground. It was a pity he didn't get to run in Cheltenham after they called the cross country off but we are where we are now."

Willie Mullins is also heavily represented, as he seeks a second victory in the world's most famous steeplechase, having previously struck with Hedgehunter in 2005.

The Closutton handler's nine-strong team features last year's Irish Grand National winner I Am Maximus, fellow JP McManus-owned runner Meeting of the Waters and Mr Incredible.

Other leading hopes for Ireland include last year's runner-up Vanillier, trained by Gavin Cromwell, the Emmet Mullins-trained 2022 National hero Noble Yeats, Martin Brassil's Panda Boy, Mahler Mission from John McConnell and Henry de Bromhead's 2021 Cheltenham Gold Cup winner Minella Indo.

The home team is led by Corach Rambler, victorious 12 months ago and favourite to strike gold again following an excellent third in the Cheltenham Gold Cup last month.

MUDDY
MARVEL:
Nassalam

Quinn eyes double top at Aintree

CAOILIN Quinn can begin to dream of Grand National glory aboard NASSALAM after being given the all-clear to return to race riding following injury.

The 22-year-old has been the man for marathons this season and as well as being aboard Gary Moore's mud-loving stayer when romping to victory in the Welsh Grand National in December, he has also won the Surrey National for his boss aboard Movethechains and the Sussex National with David Bridgwater's Dom Of Mary.

However, Quinn has been out of action since the end of February after breaking his collarbone at Plumpton, sitting on the sidelines throughout the Cheltenham Festival where his star mount, Nassalam, was pulled up in his Aintree prep in the Cheltenham Gold Cup.

Now the young jockey is set to step off the treatment table and into the pressure cooker of Aintree on Grand National day as he receives the leg-up on not only Nassalam, but also aboard John and Yvonne Stone's Botox Has in the Liverpool Hurdle on the same card.

"It's a big weekend and I have two very good rides on Saturday, I'm looking forward to it," said Quinn. "I've just been to see the specialist and I have been given the all-clear to start riding from Thursday onwards. So hopefully I will be riding Thursday, Friday and Saturday."

"Looking at the weather forecast, it's looking like it could be in our favour. They are due a lot of rain over the next couple of days and that is only going to help Botox and definitely Nassalam. It will certainly increase their chances if it keeps raining."

"The two of them have been really important to me so far in my career, they have given me big Saturday winners and have got me into the good races and I'm delighted to be associated with them."

Nassalam heads to Merseyside as the highest-rated British contender in the National and is set to carry 11st 7lb as he bids to join the likes of Corbiere, Bindaree and Silver Birch in supplementing Welsh National glory with success at Aintree.

As short as 14-1 with William Hill, the seven-year-old has already had a taste of the famous course when fourth in the Grand Sefton in November and his big-race pilot feels that experience will serve him well on Saturday.

Quinn continued: "The way the season has panned out, it was probably a good thing he ran in the Grand Sefton. "He has got that experience over the fences now and he seemed to take to them that day. He jumped very well late on and finished very well over a much shorter trip than it's going to be on Saturday."

"I'm delighted going into it and it takes a bit of weight off your shoulders, knowing he took to them the last day and he's been round there before."

"It's a completely different scenario on Saturday, but hopefully everything goes to plan for us. If it all works out it will be great."

winner for Welsh trainer Christian Williams, as would Gary Moore's Welsh Grand National scorer and proven mudlark Nassalam.

Others of note among 51 confirmations include the Tom Ellis-trained Latenightpass and Dan Skelton's mare Galia Des Liteaux, with the latter one of six horses on 10st 6lb at the bottom of the weights.

Empire Steel, Fantastic Lady, Angels Dawn and Fury Road were the four horses not left in at Monday's confirmation stage, while Classic Getaway, Bronn and Full Back had all been scratched.

Corach Rambler is the 4-1 favourite with Coral, with I Am Maximus and Vanillier also single-figure odds.

Coral's David Stevens said: "Fifty years on from Red Rum's second National victory, Corach Rambler looks set to start a warm favourite to emulate the Aintree legend and win the race in successive years, although soft ground performers like I Am Maximus and Meetingofthewaters continue to attract support in the betting."

NIL POINTS TO THE BOOKIES

By MIKE FRANCIS

NILOUFAR is expected to double his tally in the Download The Racecourse Ready App Handicap at Lingfield.

The daughter of Tamayuz showed precious little in three outings in maiden and novice company, meaning she entered the handicap arena from a lowly perch of just 46.

She took full advantage on her handicap bow at Chelmsford with a comfortable win four weeks ago and the form looks sound with third placed Profitman winning twice since.

Experience

The assessor has not missed Niloufar, slapping her with a 9lb hike, but she is open to further progress and this race will not take a lot of winning.

Golden Path is the pick in the Download The Racecourse App Ready Restricted Maiden Stakes.

A daughter of Golden Horn, Kevin Philippart De Foy's youngster was a big eyecatcher when making late gains to finish fourth over a mile on her debut at this track a month ago.

She should be sharper for the experience and with a step up to a mile and a quarter viewed as a positive, Golden Path should prove hard to beat. Jayyash can make it third time lucky in the Try Unibet's New Acca Boosts Novice Stakes at Kempton.

A €420,000 two-year-old purchase last spring, the Siyouni colt first stepped foot on a racecourse on Newmarket's July course in August and was not disgraced in finishing fifth behind subsequent Royal Lodge scorer Ghostwriter when looking in need of the experience.

On the strength of that form John and Thady Gosden's youngster was odds-on for his second start at Southwell last month, but came off second best in a battle with newcomer Federal Envoy.

The winner has since disappointed in the mud at Pontefract, but Jayyash nevertheless remains a horse of some potential and is backed to get off the mark before moving into handicaps.

Karl Burke's North Yorkshire raider Jackson Street could be the answer to the Unibet More Extra Place Races Handicap.

The son of Dany Man has run well in defeat in his last couple of races, notably finishing third in a race that has worked out particularly well at Southwell early in the new year, with winner Queen Of Zafeen subsequently going close in Listed company and the runner-up Solomon winning easily next time.

An opening mark of 77 for Jackson Street's handicap bow looks workable, albeit in a competitive heat.

Gold

Recent Lingfield victor No Half Measures, trained by the in-form Richard Hughes, rates the best bet at Wolverhampton in the Get The Inside Track With race-day-ready.com Fillies' Restricted Novice Stakes, while Jet Plane can do his bit to aid trainer Dan Skelton's title charge at Market Rasen.

The eight-year-old has won four times from 12 attempts over fences, most recently striking gold at Sandown last month.

While three of his triumphs were achieved over trips in excess of three miles, Jet Plane proved effective back over two-and-a-half on his most recent outing, albeit on a stiff track.

He runs over a similar distance in Lincolnshire and with a 12lb rise perfectly fair, another bold bid should be anticipated in the "Rasen Rocks" Featuring James Arthur Handicap Chase.

King Of The Road has an obvious chance of making it back-to-back course wins in the Market Rasen Centenary Celebration Year Handicap Hurdle.

The five-year-old was never a factor in his sole bumper start or in his first four starts over hurdles, but proved his worth on his second outing in handicap company here at the end of March.

Ridden confidently by Kielan Woods, Ben Pauling's charge was good value for the winning margin of three lengths and he has every chance of following up just 10 days later under a penalty.

What now for Toffees after new point cut?

EVERTON IN SURVIVAL BATTLE

MORE GRIEF:
Sean Dyche

EVERTON have been plunged deep into relegation trouble after being docked another two points for a second breach of spending rules.

The Toffees now sit just two points clear of the bottom three with seven fixtures left, although they have a game in hand on each of the three sides below them – Nottingham Forest, Luton and Burnley – and are 11 points better off than bottom-of-the-table Sheffield United.

Midweek Sport takes a closer look at their plight.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED?

An independent commission has deducted two points from Everton after the club admitted a breach of the Premier League's profit and sustainability rules (PSR) over the three-year cycle to 2022-23, leaving them on 27 from 31 games.

By MARK NAYLOR

HAVEN'T WE BEEN HERE BEFORE?

Yes. The Merseyside club were hit with a 10-point penalty in November after being found to have "taken chances" with PSR. Their losses for the three-year period up to 2021-22 were £124.5million, £19.5million over the threshold, even accounting for allowances made for the Covid-19 pandemic. At the time, they slipped to 19th place as a result, but the sanction was reduced to six points in February following a successful appeal, at which point they climbed to 15th.

WHAT ARE THE PSR?

These are the regulations governing a club's maximum permitted losses. Normally top-flight clubs can lose up to £105million over the three-year assessment period without being in breach.

HOW MUCH ABOVE WERE EVERTON?

The club exceeded the spending limit during the specified period by £16.6million.

During a three-day hearing, the commission considered mitigating factors cited by Everton, but ultimately decided a two-point penalty to take effect immediately was the most appropriate action.

WHAT WERE THEIR ARGUMENTS?

The Goodison Park outfit argued against further punishment, pointing to "the concept of double punishment, the significant mitigating circumstances facing the club due to the war in Ukraine, and the high level of co-operation and early admission of the club's breach".

WHAT HAVE EVERTON SAID?

The club have signalled both their intention to appeal and commitment to "working collaboratively" with the league on PSR matters, while expressing concern over "the inconsistency of different commissions in respect of points deductions applied".

WOULD THAT BE THE END?

Possibly not. The independent commission was unable to decide on whether there was a further breach relating to costs of £6.5million and so another hearing will follow.

That case will be heard at an unspecified date, with any resulting points or financial penalty likely to be applied next season.

ARE THEY ALONE?

No. Nottingham Forest were last month docked four points for an overspend of £34.5million on their allowed total of £61million – £22million is deducted from the £105million limit for each season spent outside the Premier League during the qualifying period – with a further two points discounted to reflect their early plea and co-operation.

Sky Bet Championship leaders Leicester, who have since reported a pre-tax loss of £89.7million for the year to June 30, 2023, were referred to an independent commission by the Premier League for an alleged breach last month.

EUROPA FINAL TICKETS STORM

By ANDY MILLOM

LIVERPOOL or West Ham will receive just 12,000 tickets if they make it to the Europa League final.

There has been dismay from fan groups since the figures were released by UEFA.

That works out at just HALF the tickets available at the Allianz Arena in Dublin – formerly known as Lansdowne Road.

The match in the Irish capital could yet be an all-English affair, with quarter-finalists Liverpool and the Hammers on opposite sides of the draw heading in the quarters.

Fans' group Football Supporters Europe said: "FSE shares its serious concern that the allocations at the 2024 Europa League Final in Dublin will reach just 50% of the stadium's total capacity on the day."

"Further, FSE calls on UEFA and the local organisers to do right by the supporters and increase allocations."

"A paltry 50 per cent of capacity for Europa League finalist clubs is, simply, not good enough and falls well short of FSE's demand to provide at least 66 per cent of tickets for all European finals to supporters of the teams involved."

"This will significantly fuel black market ticket activity, exploiting fans' loyalty in the process."

UEFA confirmed on Tuesday each of the finalists for the Europa League will receive 12,000 tickets for the match, where capacity at the Aviva Stadium will be 48,000.

The tickets allocated to the fans of the finalists will be the cheapest on offer at 40 euros (just over £34) each, with general sale tickets starting at 65 euros (£55.70) each.

The two teams reaching the Champions League final will receive 25,000 tickets each for Wembley, with those also the cheapest available at £60.

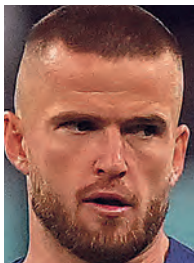

UEFA chief Theodore Theodoridis admitted last month staging the Europa League final in Dublin could prove "extremely challenging" and revealed 82,000-capacity Croke Park had been reserved as a potential fan zone.

Dier says he deserves to be picked in Euro squad

ERIC Dier believes he is playing the best football of his career and warrants a place in England's Euro 2024 squad.

The 30-year-old has been a regular for Bayern Munich since his loan switch in January, having dropped down the pecking order at Tottenham where he made only four appearances under Ange Postecoglou.

Dier has impressed for the German giants but Southgate overlooked the 49-cap defender for March's final camp before naming his Euros squad.

The centre-back has not played for the national team since their World Cup last-16 win over Senegal in December 2022 but believes he deserves to be in consideration to go to a fourth major tournament.

"Obviously, I want to be a part of the England set-up and I believe that I should be a part of it, that I'm that level of a player," Dier said.

"I haven't spoken at all to Gareth Southgate, but you try and play as well as possible for your club and then the decision is out of your hands.

"Since the World Cup, I wouldn't say that I've had any dip in form, I'm playing the best football of my career since (Antonio) Conte came (to Tottenham in 2021) and I've carried it on since I've been here, and I think I've shown that.

"People think that I'm 37 or something, but I'm 30 years-old and am nowhere near the end of my prime and imagine that this will be my prime.

"When I look around the players I've played with in my career, like (Mousa) Dembele, (Jan) Vertonghen, (Toby) Alderweireld, (Hugo) Lloris – all these guys, they were 31, 32 and were playing their best football at Tottenham."

Dier went to the 2018 and 2022 World Cups as well as Euro 2016, but had to watch England's run to the final of the last Euros three years ago from afar.

Southgate was asked about overlooking the former Sporting Lisbon player for friendlies with Brazil and Belgium.

"Clearly he's a player we know really well," the England boss said of Dier. "He's only had seven starts this season.

"Bayern have had a mixed period but it's good to see Eric playing. He's a player that if we felt he was the best for that role, he could slot easily back in ahead of the Euros."

IT'S SQUEAKY BUM TIME IN

MISTAKES AKILLER FOR KOB

Rising star Mainoo gutted that United can't hold on to a lead

KOBIE Mainoo says Man United need to start seeing out games and iron out little mistakes after Erik ten Hag's side went close to a stunning win against rivals Liverpool.

Few expected anything other than a victory for Jurgen Klopp's title challengers on Sunday, especially after Luis Diaz gave the visitors a deserved half-time lead at Old Trafford.

United had not registered a shot until the 50th minute but when it arrived it did so in style and Bruno Fernandes' audacious 45-yard goal sparked a marked improvement.

Mainoo went onto put the hosts ahead with an exquisite first senior goal at Old Trafford, only for Mo Salah's penalty to a late 2-2 draw.

"To score my first goal at Old

By PAUL THOMAS

Trafford, it's unbelievable," the 18-year-old academy graduate said. "But uwe didn't come away with the three points, so it doesn't leave the best taste in my mouth."

It is little wonder Mainoo was frustrated after the Old Trafford outfit blew a late lead for the third time in nine days.

United were on course for a smash-and-grab win at Brentford last weekend, only for Mason Mount's stoppage-time strike to be followed by an even later Kristoffer Ajer equaliser as it ended 1-1.

Worse was to come when the Red Devils returned to west London on Thursday, recovering from two goals down to head into second half stoppage time leading before losing 4-3 against Chelsea.

Salah's 84th minute equaliser was nowhere near as late but represented another missed opportunity for a side whose faint Champions League hopes continue to fade by the game.

"Definitely there are positives," Mainoo said. "I feel second half we figured things out and we were much, much better."

"But seeing out games is what's going to get us points and that's what's going to get us higher in the table, that's what's going to win us games, so these things matter."

Asked how important it is that the kind of standards driven into him in United's academy are retained at the highest level, Mainoo said: "Yeah, 100 per cent."

"That's what wins you titles and that's what wins you games, having these standards, having players that make sure the rest of the team keep up to them standards, which we do."

"And so, I feel like it's just the little things that we need to iron out."

That's what's going to help us win these games."

The 18-year-old has not looked back since making his first Premier League start on November 26.

Mainoo made his England debut just four months on, with his display against Belgium putting him in with a chance of going to the Euros.

The United midfielder's rise shows no signs of abating.

"Enjoyable, tough but it's playing for my boyhood club on the biggest stage," Mainoo said of the season to date. "To be able to adapt and to have these fans and everything around it, I mean, I can't complain."

But what about United's defensive record, especially against their fiercest rivals?

THE PREMIER LEAGUE

MOBBED: Mainoo after his brilliant strike against Liverpool

HONEST: Gabriel Jesus

I'm no Kane admits top Gunner Gab

ARSENAL forward Gabriel Jesus believes it is unfair to compare his goal-scoring statistics to the "best finisher in the world" Harry Kane.

Prolific Bayern striker Kane was back in north London for the first time since leaving Tottenham last summer for Tuesday evening's Champions League quarter-final first leg at Emirates Stadium. Spurs' all-time record scorer has continued his red-hot form in Germany, registering 38 goals in all competitions during a disappointing campaign by the Bundesliga club's high standards.

Jesus has hit the net just eight times for Arsenal in that time but has often been deployed on the wing.

The Brazil international feels he offers alternative qualities to both Kane and Manchester City star Erling Haaland.

"Even if I'm playing in the position like they play in every game, I think it's unfair (to compare) because we are different types of player," he said.

"Not many people want to look at the game like that. I have played this season maybe 40 per cent on the wing.

"People only want to know the result and if I score or not. That's football today.

"People want stats. It's not only with me but with a lot of strikers. I will never complain or compare with someone, I will always try to work.

"Everyone here knows the quality of Harry Kane.

LEGEND: Harry Kane

For me personally, he's the best finisher in the world.

"It's great to play against these types of players. Obviously we want to keep him quiet and then we try to win the game.

"But it's not only Harry Kane. They have quality players there."

Arsenal have reached this stage of the competition for the first time in 14 years and top of the Premier League table on goal difference.

Jesus is content to set aside his ego in order to aid the Gunners' pursuit of domestic and European glory.

"This part of the season, you don't have to think about yourself, you have to think about the team," he said.

"I just want to win. "I want to be on the pitch of course but this part of the season you have to put away your ego and help the team."

While Arsenal are in contention to become top-flight champions for the first time in 20 years, Bayern's quest for a 12th successive Bundesliga title is effectively over as they sit 16 points adrift of leaders Bayer Leverkusen.

Jesus dismissed suggestions the Gunners are favourites to progress.

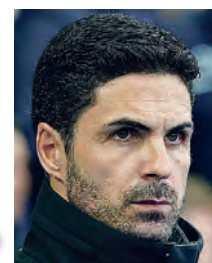

"No team in the world is perfect," replied the 27-year-old when asked about Bayern's league form.

"Everyone knows their history, they won a lot of titles.

"Everyone knows the quality of the club, the amazing quality of the players."

PRESSURE: Ten Hag

TRUST: Gaffer Arteta

only two goals and two points as Erik ten Hag's defence continue to defy statistical likelihood.

Jurgen Klopp's side dominated December's Anfield encounter with 34 shots to United's six but only managed eight on target. Andre Onana saved well from Virgil Van Dijk, Mohamed Salah and Luis Diaz, but arguably the hosts' best chance fell to famously-scoreless defender Joe Gomez in the closing stages.

Sunday brought a near repeat of that performance, Liverpool with 28 shots to United's nine. Again, though, only seven were on target for a total of 15 out of 62 across the two games, scoring only twice with one of those being a Salah penalty.

Throw in another 25 Liverpool attempts in the recent FA Cup tie at Old Trafford – also a 2-2 draw over 90 minutes before United won 4-3 following extra-time – and Liverpool have taken 87 shots in three games against United this season without winning any of them.

UNDER FIRE

Having gone 3-2 up on Chelsea last Thursday when Alejandro Garnacho scored in the 67th minute, United allowed their opponents to have the final 10 shots of a madcap game and paid the price as Cole Palmer scored in the 10th and 11th minutes of stoppage-time to complete his hat-trick and win the game.

Liverpool had 15 without reply in the first half on Sunday, meaning United had conceded 27 unanswered shots before Bruno Fernandes snapped that in style by equalising from 40 yards.

The Old Trafford side have now faced 252 Premier League shots in 2024 – far more than any other club. Brentford (227), West Ham (218), Sheffield United (212) and Luton (209) are the only other teams to face over 200 in that time, with only the Hammers currently outside the league's bottom five.

Chelsea, like Liverpool, had 28 total attempts against Manchester United but followed up with only six against Sheffield United, the league's bottom club with a similarly wide-open style.

Over the whole season, United have faced 553 shots – just seven fewer than the Blades' league-high total.

Despite that, the 46 goals Onana has conceded is the sixth-lowest total for any top-flight club this season, behind the top four of Arsenal (24), Liverpool (30), Man City (31) and Spurs (45) as well as Everton (42).

CYRIEL UP FOR FINAL DAY WIN

CYRIEL Dessers believes Rangers can get the Celtic Park win they might need in the final Old Firm Premiership game of the season.

The Gers striker described Sunday's 3-3 draw at Ibrox as "one of the craziest games of my life" and it left the Light Blues one point behind the Hoops at the top of the table having played a game fewer.

The 29-year-old Nigeria international said: "We showed we can score three goals against a good team. We showed we can hurt them and if we're a little more lucky - like with the first goal - and we can take our moments we can get a good win there. "Obviously it is very close, like I said.

"I think we saw that quality-wise we are also very close to each other. With the result and performance on Sunday, that will give us a mental boost as well.

"So I hope we are slightly ahead. We will have to be ready from now until the last game, but we are."

REDS REEL IN RUBEN

Kop move to seal deal before Barca swoop

LIVERPOOL want to tie down Ruben Amorim as their new boss before the end of the season.

The Sporting Lisbon gaffer is their number one choice to succeed Jurgen Klopp at Anfield. He is as low as 1-5 with the bookies.

As soon as Xabi Alonso made it clear he would be staying at Bayer Leverkusen, the Reds wanted to get the deal done sharpish.

And that urgency has been stepped up after reports in Spain suggested that Barcelona are also taking a close interest in Amorim.

Kop insiders say he was always the prime candidate even before Alonso ruled himself out. He is thought to be waiting for his dream job at Real Madrid - one of his former clubs.

Talks are thought to have started between Liverpool and Amorim's agent with the 39-year-old said to be keen on a move to the Premier League.

Ahead of the weekend win against Benfica that put Sporting further ahead at the top of the table, he refused to commit to the club.

Amorim said: "I can't guarantee that. I don't want to be talking too much about my future.

"But I won't argue or put any pressure on Sporting, I owe the club a lot."

Amorim would be a slightly risky appointment with just four seasons under his belt as a manager.

But he has transformed the fortunes of Sporting Lisbon, bringing them their first title in 19 years with another to follow this season.
